

IMMEDIATE FOR DOGS LOST IN ARCTIC EXPEDITION

Over Loss Expressed Burt M. McConnell, Who Organized Teams for Stefansson.

Immortalization for the dogs that Vladimir Stefansson took away with him...

Watch Jumbo and Hans were the lead dogs of the second team...

THE REASON FOR WRITING. "I am writing about the Stefansson dogs...

Stefansson had a team composed of Snop, Gander, Joe, Bitter, Charley, Denby and Britt...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

Stefansson had in that time expected to have ample time to put his scientific data into manuscript form...

WAR'S EFFECT ON CHURCH INCOME HALTS BUILDINGS

Improvements at Bonbrake Seminary, Ohio, Abandoned for Present.

The European war has affected the income of the United Brethren in Christ Church to such an extent that the erection of several proposed buildings at the Bonbrake Seminary, in Dayton, O., must be abandoned for the present.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

The Rev. J. W. Owen, assistant editor of Sunday school literature and the United Brethren in Christ Publishing House, outlined the situation of this Dayton institution.

CENTRAL AMERICANS TELL HOW U. S. CAN TAKE TRADE

Understanding of Their Social Habits and Business Ways Essential.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Members and guests at the Pan American States Association's reception to the Latin-American Consul Generals were given excellent advice as to the best methods to capture trade enjoyed largely by Great Britain and Germany in South and Central American countries.

Speaking of the customs of the natives of those countries, Manuel Gonzales, Consul General from Costa Rica in this city, stated:

"If they want to wear red shirts, blue hats and yellow shoes, do not correct them. They will wear them and you will make a good profit from the trade."

He added the time was now ripe for American merchants to supplant British and German exporters.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

He added the time was now ripe for American merchants to supplant British and German exporters.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

Phanor J. Eder, an attorney and author on Latin-American laws, stated Germany and Great Britain obtained the bulk of the trade in these countries because they understood the social habits and business ways as well as the financial and banking arrangements in the South American republics.

WAR ROBS KING GEORGE OF HIGHLAND OUTING

Stories of Adventure Amuse Royalty; Cheer for Men.

LONDON, Sept. 2. Usually at this period of the year the King and Queen and all the court are at Balmoral enjoying the Highland sports of grouse shooting, deer stalking and fishing.

But, like the majority of their subjects, there is no holiday for their majesties this year. Every day they are to be seen driving through the city with a small escort, their mission inspecting one or other of the hospitals where their wounded soldiers are being nursed.

Some of the stories are sorry enough, but while the Queen is sweet and sympathetic, the King does his best to cheer up his men, so that even amid these touching scenes some of the incidents are not devoid of a humorous aspect.

"Another gone as a souvenir," said the King, pointing to a tunic jacketed in regimental badge, and the little scene was repeated several times. Some of the men were rather abashed, but the King's smile quickly reassured them. All said they were eager to get back to the fighting line.

The King spoke to the men about the work they had been doing on the continent. He inquired how the regimental boots stood the strain of heavy marching, and asked about the equipment generally. His Majesty was keen to know the Royal Scots thought of their headgear as a protection against the hot sun, and smiled when the men, though loyal to their bonnets, said they would have been glad if "something had kept more than the sun off their heads."

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The father of the boy was a passenger on a car held up by the accident. Curious to find out the cause of the blockade, he asked the driver to stop. "Oh, hard luck!" exclaimed the King.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

The King was compelled to laugh at the strongly expressive phrases in which the enemy was described. One man said that he had not been wounded in "one of the best of the world" because he was lying down on a grassy slope, well removed, as he thought, from the passing convoys, a cart was accidentally driven over him.

BUSINESS SECTION OF UP-STATE VILLAGE WIPED OUT BY FIRE

Skating Rink All That Remains at Duke Center, McKean County—Hotel Proprietor Arrested.

BRADFORD, Pa., Oct. 2.—All that remains of the business section of the village of Duke Center, Pa., a small place in McKean County, Pa., is a skating rink. A fire started at 6 o'clock this morning in the Duke House and at 10 o'clock burned itself out.

The village had no fire protection and the bucket brigade was powerless to stop the progress of the flames. Help was summoned from Bradford.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

The Duke House, where the fire started, was an old wooden building, and the flames were well under way when discovered. Besides the hotel, the following buildings were burned: The Masonic Hall, a building, Miller's drug store, the postoffice, the X-ray building, the Bell Telephone exchange, Berry & Duke, hardware and dry goods store; a vacant dwelling, owned by Fred Berry; the office of the Gas Company, and Fred Groves' grocery store.

At 11 o'clock it was announced that the proprietor of the Duke Hotel had been arrested. He is being threatened by the people of the town. The financial loss could not be estimated this morning.

FAMILIES INHERIT ESTATES

Wills of James F. Henderson and John J. Crowley Probated.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

Personal property of Charles F. Wignall has been appraised at $32,600.00; James Hoener, $250.00, and Arthur McManus, $232.00.

Wills admitted to probate today are those of James F. Henderson, late of 6305 McCullum street, whose estate of $25,000 is distributed in private bequests, and John J. Crowley, 3535 South Juniper street, whose $200,000 estate is also distributed among relatives and friends.

FRENCH CRUISER DAMAGED IN BATTLE, TOURISTS SAY

Americans From Jamaica Tell of Mysterious Sea Fight.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. The story of a mysterious battle fought between the French cruiser Conde and a hostile warship in the Atlantic reached here today with the arrival of the United Fruit Company's steamer Carrillo.

According to passengers on this ship, the Conde was in the vicinity of Jamaica harbor in a battle-scared condition, and a number of wounded were taken from the ship.

A number of German ships are lying in the ports along the South American coast, according to A. R. Dege who has just come from Bolivia, and who was on the Carrillo.

According to passengers on this ship, the Conde was in the vicinity of Jamaica harbor in a battle-scared condition, and a number of wounded were taken from the ship.

A number of German ships are lying in the ports along the South American coast, according to A. R. Dege who has just come from Bolivia, and who was on the Carrillo.

According to passengers on this ship, the Conde was in the vicinity of Jamaica harbor in a battle-scared condition, and a number of wounded were taken from the ship.

A number of German ships are lying in the ports along the South American coast, according to A. R. Dege who has just come from Bolivia, and who was on the Carrillo.

According to passengers on this ship, the Conde was in the vicinity of Jamaica harbor in a battle-scared condition, and a number of wounded were taken from the ship.

A number of German ships are lying in the ports along the South American coast, according to A. R. Dege who has just come from